

2024-05-10 - Graham discusses his observations about the freedom movement...

G'day everybody, it's Hoodie here with a bit of a, uh, an update, I guess, as to, uh, some things that are happening at the moment. I've been bombarded with messages from people telling me about a very large upheaval that's taking place within what is loosely called the Freedom Movement. And um, it's all very distressing because a lot of people are hurting and there's a lot of pain.

in that community at the moment. And, um, I say the so called freedom movement. I want to qualify that before we go any further, uh, because there is a movement of people who are seeking truth and they are a disparate group of people that are seeking truth in various areas and various agendas. And that's been pretty hard to organize, I guess.

I suppose it's like trying to herd cats. Um, at the end of the day, and we saw that play out in various rallies and protests around the country in Melbourne and Canberra and Sydney, uh, all had incidents where there was a clash of egos and a clash of agendas. And it was pretty, it all becomes very, very toxic.

And to be honest with you, um, after Canberra. the Canberra rallies, I made a public statement that I was out of the freedom movement for what it's called, for whatever, for whatever reason it exists, because I can't define it. You can ask 300 different people what their version of freedom is and you'll get 300 different answers.

And a lot of people in Australia who are still happily getting on with their lives, oblivious to all this drama that we seem to be living in. Um, they say, what are you talking about? You've already got freedom. So how do you define it? I just see what's coming and I'm doing the best I can to leave a better place for my kids and grandkids.

I'm doing that based on my biblical understandings of the way things are going. Um, and also my involvement mainly in trying to get people to see the glory in a relationship with Jesus Christ in these troubling times. That's been my main driver. The main purpose John Larder and I do the things that we do is to stick to our five main target agendas and that is To, um, make sure the borders never close again.

Uh, to end mandates and make sure people get their jobs back with full compensation. We want the right to decide whether our children are vaccinated or not. And we want a full and thorough Royal Commission. Where proper accountability measures are put in place and these things never happen again. We never came into this debate at the very beginning to change the world from the perspective of throwing governments out and, and hanging people and all that sort of stuff that others are claiming they want to do.

Uh, who knows where that goes? I know one thing. If you attack, um, if you attack these issues with anarchy, what you end up with is anarchy. Don't think the French revolution was any great shakes in history. It was one of the darkest periods in history. When the guillotine had finished eating all the bureaucrats and the aristocrats, it started turning on the leaders and people were eating themselves.

And, uh, it, the same can be said about the Freedom Movement. The Freedom Movement as it's called, it's been a generic term that's been, uh, brought about by a gathering of a whole bunch of people fighting a whole lot of upsets, all legitimate and all bounded in some form of truth. But adopting the same measure, measures as the, as the forces that we're fighting against.

There is as much fear driven coercion in the freedom movement as there is on the other side of the fence. Let's not gild the lily and let's, let's not, uh, try and make out that it's anything but what it is. It is toxic because the people in it are wounded and hurting people hurt people. And I'll continue, honestly.

That, um, I know a lot of really good people that I have complete faith in have stepped away from it, uh, for the simple reason that they're sick of fighting battles from behind as well as facing the enemy in front. It's been constant. If you have a, if you have a different point of view of anybody else in your controlled opposition or Masonic filth or all of these things, none of that's helpful.

And a lot of really, really good people have been wounded and taken out by friendly fire, if you like. And many attempts have been made in my direction in that regard as well. I know what my motives are. I know the people who I have marrow deep faith in, who've been in this fight for the last four years, and I trust them.

And some of them aren't in it anymore. Because it's just, it's just impossible. You cannot win when you're fighting against each other. So Johnny Larder and I and many others, Tony Nikolic and the like, we're all out there doing what we can in our sphere of influence to make a difference. Johnny Larder and I got to appear in the Senate hearings about the Royal Commission.

Whoop dee doo, some of you will say. Some of you will say, oh, you're dancing with the enemy. I don't care. We're doing what we feel driven to do. We got an opportunity to speak in the Senate because we've remained credible and we've tried to remain respectful through the whole argument. And that's how it's been done with us.

Now there is a lot of information out there. There's a lot of misinformation, a lot of disinformation. There's a lot of real information. And many of us are trying to work out what's what and who's who in the zoo. But let me tell you this, if you don't know what to believe, look at the motives of the people telling you the story.

If they're coercing you, bullying, abusing you and criticizing you and labeling you, Then I can almost guarantee that their motives are not in your best interest, because I know they're not in mine. If the people who are doing the things that they're doing are doing it because they love you and they're passionate about their country and their community, then maybe they're the ones you need to follow.

Look at the motive. Look at the method behind the things that are being done. The other thing I want to say clearly is don't follow individuals. Don't follow me. Sure, listen, but be guided by your own spirit and your own conscience. I'm just a human like the rest of you and so are all the other players in this, the so called leaders.

It's a folly to follow one particular person. Go back through history and you'll see how that's played out in so many ways. To the rest of the people in what we loosely call a freedom movement, who have a say, who have an influence. Stop labeling everybody. Stop talking about who's got what agenda. Stop talking about controlled opposition and masonic filth.

You're playing right into their hands. You really are. The movement as you call it has a lot of healing to do now because a lot of damage has been and is being done. Not everyone is a grifter. Not everyone is out there to derail and to oppose everything that's going on. We are our own worst enemy. And the sooner we realise that, the better.

For goodness sake, start having compassion and stop spreading fear and distrust. Because that's the, that's the tactic used by the opposition. And we're applying it just as much as they are. Surely you can see that. And for everyone calling for unity, all well and good. That is good. Of course you need unity.

But unity around what? What is the real purpose? You can't just say we want freedom because freedom is just another word for nothing left to lose as the song goes. Define what you want. I know what my mission is. My mission is to do those five things I talked about earlier to end the mandates. The litmus test for the work that I've done with Johnny Lada is when Johnny Lada gets his job back with full compensation.

And the direction I take from that is going to be to lead people to God. Because I believe that's the only solution. I've tried every which way to work out where to go and who to trust from that point on and it all comes back to Jesus Christ. And whether you like it or believe in him or not, he is the way, the truth, and the life.

He is 832. Jesus Christ is the 832 movement.

Abide and trust in him and have him live in you. That's the only way we're all going to get through this and we'll get through it no matter what happens. The truth of the matter is, and most of you realise it, we're a raid against a vast force with great wealth and many centuries of planning and processing to get the earth to this point.

And we're a ramshackle bunch of misinformed egos and agendas that are trying to pull it all together and fight back. Well, we have to. We have to fight for what we believe is right. But fight the real enemy. Stop making up enemies. I've been asked why I haven't retaliated against certain individuals who've been attacking me.

I know what they've been saying, but what's the point? The big thing that's over-ruled all of my thoughts about coming back out with a hit piece of some sort is this, and that is the Holy Spirit telling me the battle is mine, not yours. Let me fight the battle. Just get on with spreading the truth.

For what it is. So what is the truth? Do any of us know what the truth is? I want to ask you a couple of questions. You're seeking truth. How are you going to know when you get it? What is the indicator to you that you have finally found the truth? And my second question is what are you going to do with it when you do get it?

Really think about that. Because I tell you what, the way things are going. There's so much confusion, so much deep fake, so much fake news, so many accusations and it all boils down to the major pandemic that we're all fighting, fear and distrust.

Well, there's a lot of stuff going on at the moment. AstraZeneca has been pulled. There's a lot of very angry people all over social media that are now waking up who weren't awake before because they got AstraZeneca and they now know they were conned into taking a deadly toxin. Now is the time the truth will come out for a lot of people.

The numbers of those people seeing the agendas that are playing against humanity are growing. So how are we going to embrace those people and bring them into a fold amongst a group of rational, sane individuals who form a group that's really going to take some action and do some things? We've got to change the way we think.

We've got to change the way that we act. I've been approached by several political parties in the last few weeks to run. Run in the election. I have refused. It's not my role. I don't see it as my role. I'm not driven to do it. I'm not driven to be a leader. I want to provoke thought. And I want to bring people to Jesus.

He's my leader. And whether you like it or not, he's yours. And he's there for you if you accept him. And even if you reject him, the choice is yours. But for goodness sake, stop throwing people under the bus. A lot of really, really good people have been destroyed, thrown under the bus. Are our trenches so full that we can afford to lose any one of them based on innuendo and gossip?

Some of the stuff that's been said about me is reprehensible. I'm a pedophile. I'm a sonic filth. I'm a pedophile protector. I'm controlled opposition. I'm a paid actor. Every single one of those claims is BS. Absolute BS.

I'm not a fraud. I'm not a Mason. I'm just out there because I love my country and I love you who live in it. Even those of you who don't like me. So waste all the time you like by attacking me and others. It just washes off because there's a bigger picture. And you and we have to see that bigger picture in order to go forward.

So for all the influencers who are now telling the truth and coming out and saying all these things and saying we've been deceived and all that sort of stuff, think carefully. We all have a major responsibility, a massive responsibility. What we do here and now affects the lives of our children and grandchildren and the state of the country we're going to leave to them.

So let's stop pontificating. Let's stop looking for reds under the bed. Let's stop mining for darkness and going down all these ridiculous rabbit holes that starve us of oxygen and therefore common sense. And let's stand in the light, work with what we've got, live with what we've got, get on with each other, enjoy compassion, enjoy every day as the sun rises and sets.

And if you're waiting for Whitehats and the cavalry to ride over the hill, well I hope that gives you peace.

But it's clearly obvious that the cavalry is us. There may not be a cavalry. There may not be this great underground movement that's working to fix the problems of the world. It's you and me. We're the ones who fix it, and how do we fix it? by working in our own little sphere of influence, in our own little community, in our own families.

And the sooner we stop doing crazy detective work and coming up with incorrect assumptions about each other, the better off we'll all be. The option's yours. The option's mine. I'm not controlled opposition. I'm in this for all the right reasons. I sleep well at night knowing what my motives are and it's all because I care about the people I come in contact with.

And if every person on the planet looked after the person on his right, we wouldn't be in this mess. I believe that to be true and they're the, they're the processes and the, and the ideologies that I live by. I've learned after 71 years that that's where I need to go. So some of you are facing heartbreak.

Some of you are feeling like a husband or a spouse who's just been told that their spouse is cheating on them with their best friend. You're devastated. You gutted. You feel let down.

I'm hearing you and for all of those of you contacting me asking me to do something and say something. This is what I come up with. Trust in yourself. Trust in the spirit that guides you. And I pray for your sake that it's the Holy Spirit, because I find no other way out of this. 832 sits over my shoulder on my desk there.

John 8:32, know the truth and the truth will set you free. And the truth is that Jesus is the way, the truth and the light. And he is the only way out of this mess. And you can invent a whole bunch of other theories that you think will work. But at the end of the day, he's the only answer. He's the only answer I can come up with.

The rest of it is background noise and fairy tales.

It is what it is. I ain't going nowhere and neither's Johnny Larder and neither are the people that we put our faith in. We're rational, we're staying clean, we're staying rational and we're focusing on the target. There are certain individuals who've been bagging us who wouldn't have ever had an opportunity to get into the Senate and vent their spleen in the Senate and make some kind of difference with the system we've got.

Cause believe me, those people who were saying we should bag out the whole system, throw it away and start again. What are you going to start with? Hmm. What are you going to start with? Cause the truth is if the people doing all the influencing in Canberra got control of the government two years ago, we'd be in a worse mess than we are now.

It's time we face the facts. They're the facts. Are we fit to govern yet? What are we going to govern?

These are troubling, very troubling times. But they're not going to get any better. But how we deal with them can get better. So it's up to each and every one of us. There's a whole bunch of stuff coming. There's a train coming, my friends. And the sooner we deal with it, the better. But let's deal with it with compassion and love.

And cut with the criticism and the constant sniping. Playing right into the enemy's hands. You can bet your bottom dollar that Klaus Schwab and his like would have been sitting round a table discussing how we would all do this and we played right into their hands by doing exactly what we've been doing.

All we've been doing is making a bunch of noise. Think about it, it's true. All we've been doing is making a lot of noise and going nowhere. We're like a high powered speedboat with no propeller. We make a lot of noise and we don't care anyway. We don't have to keep going that way. I don't know what unity looks like in that particular movement.

And I reiterate, I'm not in the freedom movement. So don't label me as a freedom movement leader. I couldn't bear to live in there. I'd be dead now if I'd stayed in it. I'm telling you the truth. The three weeks in Canberra were glorious, but I felt like I was living in the belly of the beast. And all because some people didn't know how to trust others.

And some people were setting an agenda that wasn't in line with what the majority were there for. That's the truth of it. It came together organically. There was no one organiser. Everyone was trying to make it work while we were all there in one place. But it all went south because of agendas and egos.

I could see it happening at the time. There was nothing I could do to stop it. Nothing.

So that's history now. So what are we going to do with the future? That's up to you and that's up to me. For those of you who feel like you've been jilted, it's okay, you'll get over it. Time heals all wounds. But don't start vendettas and don't start ripping other people apart because that makes no sense.

You're just playing right into the enemy's hands. Mutiny doesn't serve anybody, my friends. It doesn't. My name's Graeme Hood. I believe in peaceful coexistence and justice. I believe in the fact that as Taffer Field, my friend says, good people break bad laws. I will be peacefully non compliant. I will seek the truth that has me act in a way that is in accordance with my biblical principles.

And I will continue to do what I do, whether people hated me or do hit pieces on me or not. I ignore it because it's not my battle. I fully believe I'm doing what God wants me to do. I feel it in my heart. So if you're taking me on and others like me, you're taking on a bigger opponent than you realize.

You're taking on God. I'm not special. I just choose to follow him and those who choose to follow him have his protection. So God bless you all. Stay out of the trees. Dear Father in heaven, we pray for serenity. We pray for peace. We pray for conscience. We pray for integrity and honor, and we pray for a peace that surpasses all understanding.

So Lord, please give us the strength and the courage. Father, give us the strength and the courage we need. Lord, grant us the serenity to accept the things we cannot change, the courage to change the things we can, and the wisdom to know the difference. Living one day at a time, Enjoying one moment at a time, accepting hardship as a pathway to peace, taking as Jesus did this sinful world as it is, not as we would have it, and trusting that you, God, will make all things right if we surrender to your will so that we may be reasonably happy in this life and supremely happy with you forever in the next.

I pray for all those freedom loving peoples who just want to live in peace and serenity among sovereign citizens in Jesus name. Amen. God bless you. Spread this for what it's worth. Comment if you will, but keep your comments nice because I don't have time for anyone who's going to be ripping other people apart.

Those days are over. If that's where you're at, you haven't learned anything in the last four years. God bless you and bye for now.
