

2024-06-15 Graham speaks with Aneeta Hafmeister from the AVN...

G'day

everyone, Friday the 14th of June, I'm on my Pap Malone today because Johnny's up to his neck in all sorts of things and, uh, very busy, but I'm in good company because I've got Anita Hafmeister from the AVN, which is Anita, the Australian Vaccination Risks Network. AVN, sorry? The Australian Vaccination Risks Network.

There's a long story there, Hoody. We are the AVN, but we were forced to not change our name. We used to be the Australian Vaccination Network. And there's a long story there of the government forcing us to change our name. They said that was misleading. So, to annoy the government, we just put a hyphen in and put the risks in, so we could still be the AVN.

So we still call ourselves the AVN, but we actually are the Australian Vaccination Risks Network. Are you constantly in skirmishes with the government, and has it been like that for the last 30 years? Maybe not in the last 30, but definitely in the last 20. Definitely the last 20, just behind the scenes, the bureaucratic red tape and the things they just throw at us has just been unrelenting.

And for such a small little group, I say we fight outside our weight division every time. But no, it's crazy hootie and it feels sometimes like they try and tie us up in knots that way. To stop us doing what we want to do, which is, you know, um, share information about vaccination and promote informed consent and, you know, fight for medical freedom, basically.

So, it feels like they always tie us up with all this other stuff to stop us doing what we really want to do. Now, Johnny and I had the absolute honour of being guest speakers at your 30th anniversary event over a month ago on the Gold Coast. And we both left that place thinking, where have we been for the last 30 years?

Because, uh, the stories that you guys shared on stage. The camaraderie, the people from all different walks of life, they're not ratbags, they're not nut jobs, they're not cooks. They've all got an experience of having family members or themselves suffering a vaccine injury that goes way back before the COVID vaccines, so called vaccines were ever thought of.

Um, it really, it really touched our hearts, Anita, and we made a pact with you guys then that we were going to push the AVN as much as we could, especially today. Now, I want to thank the government. Of Australia, who, uh, you know, who had my, who, who had my support all the way through till COVID. Uh, if they said get a vaccine, I'd get it.

If they said do this, I'd do it because I believed in them as much as you do with politicians and what have you. But I want to thank them that they overcooked the whole COVID narrative because they have turned me into an anti vaxxer and I'm so grateful that I am an anti vaxxer and saying that is going to put me in, uh, in somewhat hot water, Anita.

And let me give you, let me show you a blast from the past as I share screen, and then we'll get into a conversation of the kind of lunacy that hangs onto the word anti vaxxer when it's viewed from people who aren't. So let me just share screen. I shared this last night as well, but I want you to see this.

Watch this, Anita, I really want to hear your response. If you are anti mandate, you are absolutely anti vaxxer. I don't care what your personal vaccination status is. If you support, champion, give a green light, give comfort to, support anybody who argues against the vaccine, you are an anti vaxxer.

Absolutely. Your personal vaccination status is utterly irrelevant. If you are out there in any way, shape or form campaigning against this mandate, you are absolutely anti vaxxer. If you say pro persuasion, stop it, shove it. We are absolutely going to make sure as many territories as possible are vaccinated.

That is our best protection against this thing. And if you look at the Doty model, and it's only come out since, they said we could double dose 80 in remote communities, five and up. I think you'll see our vaccine mandate is absolutely crucial to protecting life, particularly Aboriginal life. And I will never back away from supporting vaccines and anyone out there who comes for the mandate.

You are anti banks. Michael Gunner, the former Chief Minister of the Northern Territory, um, you've got to look at the look in that guy's eyes, and he, in his, in his rant there, he typifies a mentality that permeated through all the state premiers during the initial outbreak. Um, what I saw there was a psychopath.

An absolute psychopath. Uh, have you seen that one before, Renata? I have, Horthy, and I have to say, though, I kind of love it. Because it's all on show. He doesn't even blink during that tirade, and he comes across as a bit of a psychopath. And you know, they've always couched this vaccine debate so nicely, and you know, the gloves came off in this.

You can see exactly how psychopathic they are. And you know, prior to Convid, Anti vaxxers, the definition of it was actually somebody who refuses all vaccine. Then they changed that definition to anyone who opposed mandates. So say you wanted to get the vaccine yourself and you were happy to do so, but you just didn't think other people should lose their jobs if they didn't get it.

You are now a crazy anti vaxxer. So they actually expanded our base exponentially overnight. So, you know, as awful as that is looking back, it's actually one of the greatest things to happen to this whole debate, because it's all on show just how psychopathic they are. Well, it's that kind of rhetoric that added me to your numbers, and I know a great many others as well, and even, we've mentioned this on the last couple of programs, uh, Dr.

Nick Coatsworth has come out now, having started in 2020 pushing the vaccines and really punching the fear out, slowly year by year, you see him backing off, backing off, and now he came out on Ben Fordham's show the other day and said, I haven't had a COVID jab for two years. I've had three altogether and I'm not having any more because the science does not back it up.

I mean, now we're starting to see this come out and still, Anita, they're pushing it. But it, look, it's the thing, why are they still pushing it? If he, if he is saying, if Nick Coatsworth is saying the science isn't there. Why are they still pushing it? Why are they still boosting people? And why isn't he on the media saying, Hey, guys, why are we promoting boosters when the science isn't there?

I mean, he thinks the science isn't there. So, all these others pushing it. Well, what science are they basing it on? Like, there's such a, yeah, he, he just, he just can't come out and say it. He just can't come out and be completely honest. It's really interesting watching them all turn to weasels and back down now, though.

It is. And I mean, I, I, uh, I have been communicating with him by text message, trying to encourage him, uh, because he was the, he was the, um, he, he's the former, um, deputy chief health officer for the Australian government, the federal chief health officer. And he has been squirming about this as, as his mate, Carl Stefanovic on the Today Show.

They've been squirming about this for the last 18 months or more now. Um, and they, they need to take the next step because history, history will record them one way or another by the actions they take from here on in. So it's, it's very interesting to watch all this transpire, uh, because the madness is about to happen again.

We know that the, uh, the bird flu is coming. Now, I've just been informed by a bunch of people in Tasmania, Hoodies Heroes people, who are beautiful and reliable people, they're just community groups, that all eggs have been removed from all Woolies and Coles supermarkets in Tasmania. No eggs. They've taken them off the shelves.

So, they're asking for recipes of how to preserve eggs, which you can do. You can bottle fresh eggs and, uh, with lime and water. And you can, uh, crack them open in five, six, seven years and they're just like they've been laid. They're beautiful. But this is a madness that's coming, Anita, and this is why people need to be aware.

And what really struck me about, uh, the AVN 30th anniversary celebration was the whole COVID narrative didn't seem to feature as much as all the other stuff that's gone for years. So quietly, not so quietly, but to lots of people like me who had their head in the sand, you guys have been chipping away forever, uh, about all the other stuff that's going on.

Now, the one big thing that this government has done, which is criminal in my book, is no jab, no play, and then no jab, no pay. And, uh, there's, you know, the government's been pushing that for a long time. Scott Morrison was pushing that, uh, pretty heavily. And in fact, I think he brought it in, didn't he? He was a social services minister.

They brought it in and see it wasn't under health because it's not about health. It was social services minister, and he just made sure it got rammed through. I think that's why he was rewarded with the prime ministership afterwards. Because he did all the dirty work that they required him to do and he was unrepentant about it.

And yeah, like and and we screamed as loud as we could Hoodie at the time saying, you know, this is the thin edge of the wedge. If you can discriminate and segregate children on the basis of vaccination, it's going to come for everyone else next. And, you know, we were all howled down and tell, well, that's what you deserve.

You filthy anti vaxxers. You don't deserve government payments. You don't deserve childcare. Your children don't deserve an early education. That's what we were told. And now, you know, people finally see what we were getting at. You must have that right to informed consent. And we even said then, The basis of medicine is formed consent.

How can you possibly have financial penalty held over your head and be told that's informed consent? Like that is manipulation of the highest order. You know, we've had plenty of horrific emails over the years of people who got their child vaccinated so they could go to childcare and then they got injured.

And you know what happens then they're stuck at home. caring for them then and they still can't go to work and now they've got an injured child. You know, there's, there hasn't been a vaccine injury compensation program in Australia until COVID because it's basically been the NDIS and that is why the NDIS is struggling because it is basically that is where your vaccine injured children end up and that's what, you know, Australia is groaning under the weight over.

But you know, various states in Australia have different no jab, no play legislation. So some states your children cannot attend Child care at all. If they're not vaccinated, some will allow you to attend under some condition, but you still can't get the rebate. So it costs you through the nose. So, because people have often asked, why isn't it that they haven't mandated vaccines for school in Australia, which they haven't done.

You can, your child can attend any school in Australia. There are no vaccine mandates for that. We often get that question too. But we were told by someone in the legal profession that they think that no jab, no pay and no jab, no play have been so effective and they have forced the vaccination rate so high with that they haven't had to bother with school mandates yet, but that's why when I was a kid, I had four shots when I was a kid, four shots that was it.

I remember the day that I got them, you know, there was everyone at school was told to roll up their sleeve and we hated that day. A lot of kids went sick and didn't want to go there. Now, I mean, I had a great grandson born a couple of weeks ago and he had two shots in the first six hours. I mean, it's just obscene and, and something like 70 or 80 shots into a child, into a child's body before they're five years old.

Is that the figure of the last one I heard? Oh, not quite. It'd be 40 something. It's about 70. I'll be able to tell them they're 18 if they get all the recommend, but it's still hideous Woody. And what's hideous is they give them seven to nine on the same day. People don't know some of those vaccines have, you know, seven, seven in them.

It's, um, It's crazy. Like when you think back to where vaccinated started and where we are now, like people don't realize what a pin cushion their child is. And you know, now they've come out with this RSV one that they're just forcing on all these kids. Well, not forcing, but you know, scaring the hell out of parents.

That's all I want to do is scare the hell out of parents. And, you know, we get so many, we were getting so many inquiries lately about the whooping cough vaccine because, you know, now they're forcing it on pregnant women as well. And that has changed in the last 20 years. When I was pregnant with my first child.

There was still of the mentality, you don't give a pregnant woman anything, you know, you, you don't, you don't take, you know, the wrong drugs, you don't get vaccinated, you don't do any risk of pregnancy. Now, they recommend whooping cough vaccines, which aren't just a whooping cough vaccine, that's a DTAP, you know, that's, that's a three in one.

And they jammed the flu vaccine on them, and now the COVID vaccine as well, so, you know, I wasn't surprised by Luke McClendon's stats when he was still practicing of the rate of, um, miscarriages he was seeing in his practice, because I am always amazed, Hootie, just how functional and healthy society is considering the insults we are currently, you know, inundated with between the vaccines and pesticides and food and, you know, just toxins and the stress, you know, it's, it's quite amazing, really, what the body will carry on through because it's just insane what we get assaulted with.

Yeah, we're quite resilient. That's, that's for sure. We've been given a beautiful immune system, uh, which, which flourishes in, in healthy, healthy living environment. And, um, you know, I'm just staggered at the amount of tox, toxicity that's put into children's bodies. at this stage of their life. We're seeing autism has gone through the roof and nobody can explain it.

We've seen OCD and all these other disorders that, um, the doctors are quick to diagnose because there's actually another drug for them. We've seen all these things ramp up and nobody is talking about, seriously talking about in the mainstream, that we need to have a, have a long hard look at what's being pumped into our children's bodies.

And I know of people who are homeless because of the mandates. We've actually lost their children, child protective, uh, child protective services have taken their kids from them because they're living in their cars and their children haven't been vaccinated. Um, I mean, the, the, the criminality of all of this beggars belief, it just goes on and on and on.

And now of course, we've got, um, ACDC returning. You know, it's a long way to the shop if you want a sausage roll and, and as you said in an email to me, we're on the highway to hell because ACDC, the Australian, um, the Australian, uh, CDC. The Centre for Disease Control. The Centre for Disease Control has formed.

Tell me what you know about the ACDC. Well, not a lot of actually about them. They're all sort of hodgepodge together and if you go to their website at the moment and actually ask who about them, they just list generic, Oh, we just, we're just. Specialists and epidemiologists and all these people, you know, coming together, they don't actually name names at the moment, but they've come out with and this is why thank you very much for having me today.

What do you want to talk about? They put out a consultation paper and it's called Towards Australia's National Immunization Strategy 2025 to 2030. And can I just say from the outset, I'm disgusted that it's called the immunization strategy. It's nothing but immunization. It's vaccination. Vaccination and immunization are not the same thing.

Just because you've been jabbed with toxin doesn't mean you're immune to anything. That's, that's my first misnomer with that. But, it's a 15 page report, and it's not heavy duty reading. Well, your blood pressure will go up and you get a bit angry. That's what it did to me. But, I mean, most people can get through this document quickly.

And there is an accompanying survey. And we'd really love people to fill out, go on and fill out the survey. Now, of course, the survey is biased. And the other day I was watching a clip from a, an old episode of yes, prime minister, and if you Google yes, prime minister and survey, you'll probably get this clip basically where these barrels in the office is saying, you know, you can get whatever survey.

A result you want. You just got to ask it the right way and you ask all the questions that you ask the last questions and you only publish the last answer like the one that you've led people to and the one you want. And I thought that is exactly what's happening with this survey because it is, it's written in a way that they want.

Let's face it. And, but I tell you what, there was No self awareness with this report at all, with this paper. You would think the last four years has been exactly as the government says it was. You know, like, there was this terrible illness and all the government departments did a wonderful job and they came up with this miraculous vaccine and this vaccine was just incredible.

And what a great job they all did and, you know, everyone was totally on board with it. And that has formed the basis for this report. It's quite, um, it's quite stunning. There's some, there's some interesting reading in it. But what they're going to focus on particularly was First Nations people, which I find just absolutely reprehensible.

But for people that have been in this area for a long time, we know they have been sadly attacking the Indigenous people of this country for a long time. There was a book written by Dr. Archie Kalaparinis, who worked in Aboriginal communities back in the 60s and 70s. And he wrote a famous, wrote a famous book called Every Second Child.

And he called it that because after the vaccination, you know, clinics would go through. Within a short space of time, every second baby would die of various things, but they were just so sickened by that toxic assault. And that book was actually banned for a while, I think in the 80s, so you talk about book banning, that was Dr.

Archie Kay. So you can get a download of that book if you search enough, um, because it was an incredible book. So they've been attacking our Indigenous for so long, and this is all about how they're going to You know, they're going to curate their programs to the people they want to target, you know, they're going to get into more diverse group to target the indigenous people, basically, because, you know, if, if someone on side, you know, from your community is the one promoting the vaccine, you're more likely to get it, I think, which is just so reprehensible, but, um, the last time I was on your show, I talked about a podcast the government did about how during COVID, you know, they went door to door with COVID 19.

With some eskies of vaccines and you know, they sat down had cup of teas with people basically to just berate them into getting the vaccine and they congratulated themselves heartily on that behavior, but no, this, this whole report hoodie. I looked through it. I didn't see the word health once because it's not about health.

It's all about vaccination rates, but it's not about health. And I hope people are coming to be aware of just, um, just how horrendous it is. And I mean, yeah. They talk about, um, you know, the all here, the National Immunization Program has expanded from initial coverage of nine diseases to 17 diseases.

Currently, that's why I'm saying your kids are now guinea pigs. Like, it's just endless. And where does it stop? I mean, how many bacteria, et cetera, are they? Like, you could just have thousands of these. So when do people get to the line where they say, I don't want your recommended vaccines? And I mean, yeah.

The government says it provides free vaccines in line with a recommended schedule. Yes, a recommended schedule, not a tested schedule, not a safe schedule, just a recommended one. Because that's what they come up with. And I hope people have come to be aware, you know, just how untested vaccines are. Because I've said to you before, the COVID vaccine was actually well tested compared to most vaccines.

Most vaccines are not tested against placebo. They are tested against another older vaccine and they're only tested against one vaccine and it's a new vaccine yet when your child gets them like they can get seven at once that's completely untested. If you are getting the current schedule, your child is a guinea pig.

It really is. Uh, and they also said there is, um, fluctuating community sentiment and some recent concerning declines in childhood vaccination coverage. Now why would that be Hooty? Why since 2021? Would there be declining vaccination coverage in children? And of course, they will blame misinformation, they will blame crazy anti vaxxers.

What they won't blame is themselves for overcooking the goose with COVID. And suddenly all these people are going, you know what? I don't think I trust all the information you're giving me now. And they're going to find, you know, credible doctors like Dr. Suzanne Humphreys who's written books. You know, like Dr.

Brian Hooker who wrote the book Vax Unvaxed. You know, and they're just talking about science and history that you're not told about. Because this is what I want people to understand. When you think what you're told about polio, or what you're told about smallpox, think of it this way. If in 40 years time, the only narrative that's allowed is the current government narrative, and what happened during COVID is what the government says happened during COVID, in 40 years time at school, what would kids be learning what happened during COVID?

They would say there's this terrifying deadly disease, the government did all these wonderful things to protect people, and this wonderfully safe vaccine came out and saved the day. That's what you would get told. So look back at what you're told about polio. Look back at what you're told about smallpox through that lens, because there was plenty of opposition to all of it back then.

You just don't know about it because there was no internet and there was no alternative press very much. I mean, there is some old books about it. But they're hard to find and you're not going to hear about them as, as, uh, you had Roman on the other day. He's found all those old books. You know, there's always opposition to these people think vaccination has this rosy history and it simply didn't.

But you know, they just lie by omission and that's all they have to do and terrify the wits out of you. I mean, I, I don't believe in virology for a long time. You've had the Bailey's on that was, you know, I think people really need to start questioning even bare basic science. You really need to go back to.

You know, the foundation studies of all of this and ask some very pertinent questions because, you know, like you said with the eggs and stuff and less people really stand in their digs. This is, this is here to stay. This is, they're not going to just back down from this, which has worked perfectly well for them.

They've all made billions of dollars these past few years. Yeah, that's not going to back down unless people become better informed. And I know cafe locked out, lost their page yesterday. The AVN page 18 months ago. I'm stunned the page lasted that long. Yeah. I'm stunned your page is up because the censorship since about 2017, when Vaxxed came out, sorry, 2016, when the movie Vaxxed came out, that's when we've all lost pages, we've all been censored to oblivion.

You know, that, that has just been longstanding. So. You know, that's what's coming. So, thank you for doing all these interviews lately to get all the information out as quick as you can because yeah, we don't know. We don't know what's coming. Um, so, sorry, I'll just get through this in a little bit too.

While you're talking about, while you're flicking through that, I want people to look at the website on my screen. Please take a note of it. Please go there and make sure you're informed through clubgrubbery.com.au because if the socials shut down, and they will, um, we're still going to have our websites up and running at least.

As I said, please. Look, walk away from Facebook. Give it a miss. You don't need Facebook. We don't need half these social media platforms, but stick to the ones you trust. If you go to the website, and I'm sure the AVN website has the same links on it. Down the bottom, we've got all our social media links.

Click on BitChute or Rumble or, or any of the others, Twitter or X, and, and familiarize yourself with going away from Facebook. Uh, now probably just seal our fate on Facebook, but at the end of the day, I think. Facebook have done Cafe Locked Out a big favor in that he's got much more, um, clout now than he ever did.

And, uh, and I, you know, the big issue here is that if Australians accept even someone who's not popular in their eyes being banned for 10 years for speaking the truth, then you're accepting the unacceptable. That's it. Sorry, Anita, go ahead. No, and that's how it is. And, you know, I think what tipped him over the edge of Cafe Locked Out, because I didn't know this, that Dazzle's first health problem started after a Gardasil vaccine, and that doesn't surprise me at all, and you know, that's so tragic that she was injured by the system, and then left to die by the same system, it's just, it actually took me back to anyone in our community will know, um, a wonderful young man by the name of Colton Barrett, who was horrifically injured by a Gardasil vaccine when he was 13, and in 20, 2018, at the age of 17, he took his own life, because he couldn't handle, um, The conditions of his life anymore.

And that just, that just ruined our community. He was just such a beautiful young man. And like dazzled, they're just these beautiful angelic is with the most beautiful heart and they're just, you know, their lives are just being ruined. And it's just, Oh yeah, I know, you know, it's just, it's just some days are really, really hard.

But, um, what I also wanted to talk about in the paper, they also talk about, you know, this vaccine injury compensation program, like the thinking that, you know, have to have one. And I just want everyone to know, as you've probably seen with COVID, They only have a vaccine injury compensation program, so they can tell you they have one.

As you've seen with guests on your show, Hoodie, they make it impossible to, even if you are injured and you have all the medical staff on your side, which is very rare, I can tell you, to be taken seriously by the medical system. Even if you have all the reports from all the specialists, you've got to jump through all the hoops.

And if you just don't have the exact right illness that they've got on their list, you don't get anything. And the help you do get is almost nothing. So what they, all they do is use that compensation program as a tool. So they can say to the public, we've got compensation scheme. So on the very, very rare, rare, rare chance that this happens to you, you will be compensated and you'll be safe.

And it's just to make people feel better and go get jabbed. And then the moment you're injured, you're just in the waste basket. Cause that's what happens to people. You know, I wish it wasn't true, but that's just what they do because they also don't want. Because those, those are government programs. They don't want to have to release the amount of money they've paid and the amount of victims that they've had to compensate.

You know, because that doesn't look good. Because that's what happened with the National Vaccine Injury Compensation Program in the US. When it first came out in 1986, it was supposed to be a no fault system so that parents could easily get funding, uh, money quickly and they didn't, weren't tied up in the courts for years and years all while dealing with injured kids.

But what they quickly realised the government was, They couldn't have all these people winning all these, you know, big awards because it just didn't look good. It didn't look good and it was draining the coffers of the system very quickly. So it quickly became very adversarial and that's what happens because they, they, they can't admit the wrongdoing.

They just can't admit that it's not safe. And, you know, one of the quotes in here, um, was about how, you know, people, uh, the public have to be told, convinced that vaccines are safe and effective. But what he didn't say, Hoody, was the vaccines should actually be safe and effective. Like, it's just that people should be convinced that they are, not that they actually should be that thing.

And, you know, it talks about him here, how Australia has a robust vaccine injury reporting system. And oh, how that came out of their mouth. Robust means something different to them. Rare obviously means something different to them. Because, you know, the TGA, So for people to actually report to the TGA, TGA is extremely rare and I don't know the people if people know the TGA can remove reports at their own discretion.

Because we happened, we saw that happen with some of the Gardasil injuries in Australia. A lovely young woman named Gabby Larkin developed just turbo cancer after a Gardasil vaccine. She died within I think six weeks of getting it. She just, just developed this insane cancer afterwards and her physician sent in a report to the TGA.

Bye. And that report was removed from the TGA. You know, so, if the TGA in their wisdom don't think it's really a, really an injury, but you know, they have the discretion to take it down. So, you know, and that was one of the last billboards we tried to get up, was a billboard of Gabby Larkin, um, talking about, you know, her vaccine injury from Goutersville, and Yeah, it wasn't allowed because you can't have that sort of information out there, as we all know, you can have big terror, terror billboards up, you know, you know, you've been COVID tested, do you have symptoms, all that, all that, but you can't possibly have anything up there about vaccine injury.

So nothing new under the sun in this, this regard. So that whole ACDC concept strikes. Very much of, uh, one of the rats in the cheese factory, a certain Jane Halton. Um, I wouldn't be at all surprised. She's, she's in everything. She's in everything. She's got her fingers in every pie. Yeah. Yep. Yep. Yep. And see, this, this is what's wrong.

People like her, unelected, uh, wandering around setting policies for governments and, and making decisions for everyday Australians that aren't warranted, that, uh, are unwelcome. Uh, these people have got to be, you know, you can see the whole drain the swamp narrative. Uh, we've got to clean out the dam.

Let's, let's put an Australian vernacular to it. Let's say we've got to clean out the dam because there's a lot of scum in there and it's polluting the water and the, and these bureaucrats have got to, have got to be held to account. Yeah. Cause Jane Holton, she was at that event 201 event at the end of 2019 when they discussed, surprisingly, a coronavirus outbreak and all the things they would do and how they would clamp down on socials.

It's amazing how they knew everything that was going to happen, and then a few months later, Oh, Providence! It happened! And very early in the covid situation, um, Scott Morrison actually had a telephone call with Bill Gates, because that was all over the media, you know? ScoMo had had this conversation with Bill Gates.

So we FOI'd, we FOI'd, we said we want the transcript to the conversation that Scott Morrison had with Bill Gates. And they said, no, you can't have that, that's confidential. And I thought, excuse me? He's speaking on behalf of me, of all Australians. We're paying him to be there. I think we deserve that conversation.

That's not a private conversation if he's doing it as Prime Minister. So, you know, it's just, and that's when people were still all fawning over Bill Gates because I remember that's when we were doing all our Bill Gates memes and trying to get people aware of just how vile he's been for a long time.

You know, he's been kicked out of it. I think he was kicked out of India for Fair ends vaccine campaigns where they just, you know, use these little third world children as guinea pigs and it doesn't matter how many they kill because he's going to stand up for them, right? You know, it's been going on a long time.

Yeah. He's monopolized all the global seed stocks as well. He's, um, the largest agricultural landowner in America. And, uh, you know, the guy is up to no good. Everybody, anybody with half a brain can see that Bill Gates is up to no good. You've only got to look at the Ted talk he did in 2000, sorry, 1997. A young Bill Gates came out and said, we've got to depopulate the world by 15%.

And he said, the way to do that is through vaccines. He said that clearly in a TED talk. Now he's wanting to save every life on the planet by getting everyone vaccinated. Come on, come on. You've been gifted with common sense, start to look at it. Yeah. And that's the thing. A lot of this, I mean, it's been censored, but honestly, if you want to find this stuff out, you can still find it.

You know, a lot of people don't want to read and do the work anymore. Everyone tells me, I just want a short clip. I'm like, no, you got to do the work. As a friend of mine, Lisa Joyce goes, he's got a vaccine injured children, a vaccine injured child. She always said, parents do the work. And that means work.

That means reading. That means researching. That means not having a 10 minute, a 10 second bloody clip somewhere. Like you got to do the work. You got to do the research. There's plenty of books. Plenty of research out there, but you've, you've got to hook in. Like that's just, that's just the price of parenting these days.

You've got to know what you're doing. You can't, you can't trust anyone at the end of the day. You know, you make the best decision you can when you can, but you can't trust anyone. But anyway, this survey, I mean, it's, it's, it's doesn't allow long responses. I think you're allowed about on the options there.

It does give you options. It's got 300 characters. You can, you can tell the government what you think. And at the very end, I think they're, they allow 6, 000 characters, so, like we went through, um, I was going to put it up on a blog on the AVN website, but, um, our website is down at the moment for various reasons, which I might discuss at another time, but, um, we'll probably put it up on a telegram, but, um, I'll just read you the last paragraph that I did of the AVN's response, the last 6, 000 character one that we allowed.

It says, optional. Please provide any additional feedback on the strategy not captured in your previous responses. I said all of the answer options provided are designed to be in support of the vaccination strategy. In light of the COVID vaccination debacle, it shows a complete lack of insight by the authorities into the trust that they have lost regarding vaccination.

It is disingenuous to design such a one eyed survey that doesn't allow for true disagreement strategy. This survey has been designed to provide the answers that the government wants, which is complete support of any and all coercive and manipulative vaccination policies. The number of vaccine injury victims is growing by the day, but the ACDC to completely disregard this fact in pushing for vaccination targets is disgusting and inhumane.

This strategy needs to be completely abandoned and replaced with a plan for promoting informed consent in a free society that respects human rights. There must never be vaccination targets. People must be free to make their own health decisions regardless of how the government and the pharmaceutical companies feel about those decisions.

Truth will prevail. Says it all. Now, where can people go to fill in this survey? Well, I did email you through the links, direct links. If you were able to put them on the video, please do that. But if not, um, just go to the Centre of Disease Control website. So just Google Australian Centre for Disease Control and it will take you to and go to the, their website.

Funnily enough, they don't use ACDC in their website name. It is in their logo, but it's not, it's not in their website name. So it's like cdc. gov. au, I think. And you might have to dig a little, maybe go to, um, recent stories or, or latest press releases or something, and you'll find this, this, it's called, so it's called Towards Australia's National Immunisation Strategy.

But I've seen a lot of people have shared this, I've seen Malcolm Roberts has shared it, um, the Aligned Council of Australia, like all sorts of social media have shared it, so you'll find it somewhere. Please, if you, you know, do the work, do the digging, because Yes, it's not the ideal survey, but you do get to say a little bit, even if you just say vaccine mandates are wrong, there must be informed consent.

You can't coerce people into vaccinating. That's all it needs. It just needs lots of people to do that. Because, you know, it's not often that you do get to provide direct feedback to the government. And will an AI computer maybe read it and compile it? Maybe, because it feels like the paper was compiled by that.

It feels like it was a paper compiled by something that's only seen mainstream media for the last three, four years, because It's truly astounding, the hubris in there. Because one of the words it uses to describe all the manipulation and coercion was leavers. You know, there have been different leavers introduced in the last few years to get people to vaccinate.

That's what they call forcing people onto the street and going homeless and hungry if they don't, if they don't, you know, vaccinate. Leavers. Just, you know, they're just, oh, just a different world they live in, Woody. It's just, you know, I'm not usually surprised by these mongrels anymore because I'm pretty jaded, but sometimes you just read their language and you just, yeah, they're just disgusting.

Well, you know what, everybody? There's only seven characters in the word bullshit. Um, and you'll get a few of those. And if you want to, uh, go there and do the work, just put, you know, lodge your, um, logic concerns in the best way that you can. Uh, because this system has to be rattled. I mean, it's crazy. The American CDC has done anything in the last four years.

Uh, other than cover itself with glory, uh, it has failed dramatically. And the former director has been very outspoken about the way things are done there in the USA. So look, we, we just keep plotting on, we keep doing the work. Um, remember the interview with Roman Bistranic that we did about a week ago.

Roman's interview was fantastic about the book, Dissolving Illusions. We were to be interviewing Dr. Suzanne Humphreys today, but she's got a very bad case of laryngitis. Also, we were going to be interviewing Dr. Ian Plymer last night, who's come down with the same laryngitis, unable to speak, but we'll have these guys on within a week.

Um, we're still pumping all these interviews out. We're about to interview Nicola Charles, who's going to be running for GAP in the next federal election, but for goodness sake. The Australian Vaccination Risk Network, AVN, get involved because your grand, you, the lives of your grandkids depend on it. Now, whether you agree, whether you argue a lot with people about, oh, you know, we should have whooping cough saved a lot of lives, smallpox, dah, dah, dah, dah, dah.

Just do the research and work it out for yourself. And if you think, that pumping 40 odd toxins into the body of a child before they're four or five is a good idea, then you need to rethink everything you think. I mean, it just doesn't fit. It just doesn't fit. What else is coming up for the AVN? At the moment, we've got our AGM at the end of June.

Our invites went out for that today. Um, our next thing will probably be, um, October is Vaccine Injury Awareness Month. So we haven't released a campaign for that yet, but that's what we'll be working on. Um, Yeah, no, we just, well, at the moment, Hoodie, honestly, we've just been, I can't believe the influx of inquiries we get for information about vaccines.

I know the change is out there because all the time we are getting, and it seems to be a lot of older people writing in saying, you know, my family. My daughter is, you know, pregnant with my grandchild and I need to know all these vaccines she's getting and you know, a lot of people are asking about Gardasil for their daughters and stuff.

So, we are definitely seeing a huge, huge change in, in the landscape. So, what the government is fretting about in that paper, it is actually happening and you know, it's, it's, it's, I mean, it's all their own fault. Like, most of us in this movement only got here because the hard way through a vaccine injured child.

Because they're not safe and effective as we were told and you know, all the people that say, oh, but this vaccine, but that vaccine, okay, but can you at least support informed consent? Can you at least say that there shouldn't be no jab, no pay and no jab, no play, and that people should have the right to choose, that there shouldn't be any workplace mandates for any vaccines anywhere, not in healthcare, not veterinary, not for physios, not in aged care, none.

You should be able to choose because yes, every vaccine has potential side effect of death. or very, very serious injury. They all do. That's in the US legislation. They are unavoidably unsafe. So if that is the risks, it absolutely must be a choice. And just one more thing on that survey, it closes on the 19th of June.

So please go and do that as soon as you can, because it has to be done by the 19th of June. That survey closes. Well, you've got less than a week. We'll be getting this thing out first thing in the morning, uh, being Saturday. Bye. Um. That bastion of medical marketing, Dr. Norman Swan, uh, was on ABC Radio in Perth, uh, morning show the other day, uh, prattling on about the increase in, um, in, in illnesses amongst young people that they can't explain.

There's an increase in illnesses. We haven't been, we haven't been able to work it out. Um, shingles, for example. They can't work out why so many young people are getting shingles. I mean, for goodness sake, I'm not a doctor, Dr. Swan. I'm not. I don't pretend to be. But I, I like to pride myself on a little bit of common sense, and um, the thing that keeps jumping at me is you can't give informed consent unless you have information to base it on, and you've kept it all secret, all of you have.

And involuntary informed consent is the basis of human rights all over the world, and it should be. It was enshrined in, uh, in, in the, um, in the, um, Nuremberg. Nuremberg, thank you. It was enshrined in Nuremberg. It stands true today. And just because you say there's an emergency doesn't mean that you have to abolish all those things, because you create another emergency in so doing.

I want to thank all of you who have been pushing this stuff because we know that when, uh, when you're being bullied, coerced and, um, and mandated that the government is not acting in your best interest. Thanks for showing me what you're really made of. And thanks for showing me that I truly can't trust you.

Now it's time to win that trust back. Now it's time to stop segregating people like those who are members of the ABN. Enough is enough. No jab, no pay. No jab, no play. Are you kidding me? Australia stands up in the UN and criticizes the um, the abuses carried out in countries all around the world. We have no moral authority to do that in this country because we've created a whole second class subculture and you saw that illustrated in the video clip we showed earlier with that idiot.

Michael Gunner, who's now got a cushy job in the mining industry. He wouldn't know a rock from a, from a leaf. And he's now in the mining industry. I mean, where do you go with this crap? Final comments, Anita? Well, and yeah, regarding Norman Swan being so confused. Hoodie, with the Australian Immunisation Register.

They could do a study and find out if it was vaccines very quickly because they have everyone's records and they have everyone's medical records of what they've been diagnosed with, what they've been treated for. And we've asked for this study for a long time when it was just the Childhood Immunization Register and we've said, you know, you could easily run this study, compare the unvaccinated children or partially vaccinated children to the fully vaccinated children and their health outcomes.

They could do that study in day of the week. They will never do that study hoodie because they know the answer. They already know the answer and they know that makes them complicit. Yeah. Well, I'm going to do what I always do and close it with a prayer, Anita. Lord Father in heaven, we just want to thank you, Lord, that you continue to shine the light of truth and common sense and the more and more people are picking that up.

Just I pray Lord for those who believe and those who don't, that you would give everyone the strength to stand with integrity is all we ask this morning in Jesus name. Amen. That's what we got to do. We got to stand with integrity. Uh, Nick Coatsworth. Come on, Nick. Come on. I reckon you're a decent bloke. I really do.

And, and I would love to see you come out. Do it on our program. Do it on Channel 9. Do it whatever. But you know, you know, it's wrong. Anyway, what can we do? We can only, um, hope and pray that people wake up one morning and say, you know what, I've played this game long enough. I did it. I did it way much later than you did, Anita.

You did it. Well, how many years? 25 years ago. 20 years, but I just say to people, do what you can with what you have, where you are. And you know, you worry about all these other people, you can just do what you can do. And you know, people are meant to catch up. They catch up. They simply do. You've seen that with COVID.

So, you know, I, I'm, I'm actually very heartened. There's actually a lot of very good people out there. There's, there's a few psychopaths who seem to have their finger in every pie, but there's a lot of really good people doing a lot of really good things. And, you know, that's always what keeps me going.

Yeah, good on you. President of the Australian Vaccination Risk Network, Anita Huffmeister. Thank you so much. For not only appearing and making yourself readily available, but for all the tireless efforts that you and your crew have put in. I mean, you picked up the baton from Meryl Dory, who did an amazing job for 30 years and continues to work hard on it.

Um, and you're, you're out of the same mold. You're an incredible human being. And so, uh, we want to talk to you again very soon, but in the meantime, everybody, remember if you love somebody and you haven't told them, please call them now and tell them. I love you means an awful lot to a lot of people in times of stress.

And what you did yesterday got you to today. We just keep chipping away. You live in an amazing country and what makes it amazing is you because you're amazing. Stick with it, hold the line and keep watching Club Grubbery. Don't forget, get away from Facebook, get away from any non supportive social media platform.

There's a web address on the screen. Go to it, get involved and stay informed. We're being your voice. God bless you all. And thanks for watching Club Grubbery.

Mhm. Mhm.
